Madison Park Primary School

Education case study

When it came to the refurbishment of Madison Park Primary School in Salisbury, South Australia, Cameron Macrow a senior architect from Energy Architecture was tasked with designing a space suitable for growing young minds whilst being both environmentally sustainable and respectful of the surrounding natural environment.

“For this project, we aimed to design spaces that would encourage students to think differently about ways of solving problems and deviating from traditional learning spaces” commented Cameron.

“The use of natural light and materials with varied textures is so important when stepping into any space. It needs to be inviting and feel comfortable.”

With floor space being an integral part of the new space, Energy Architecture looked to Karndean Designflooring to provide a high-quality floor with designflooring capabilities. In addition to the design functionality, the floor covering also needed to tick boxes for sustainability, value for money, product warranty, and timeliness of supply.

“The flooring often defines the use of space; if it is formal or informal and also the level of luxury it represents.”

“Karndean Designflooring is a high-quality product with realistic colours and textures. The ability to clearly define spaces also increased the capability of the space.”

Imagery and Design Reproduction

Photography and print cannot always produce a perfect representation of our products. This includes colour, pattern variation and installation elements used. For this reason we strongly recommend obtaining a product sample and where possible viewing a larger sample in-store. We also recommend visiting our website for information on installation, after care and product selection: www.karndean.com/advice. We love developing new ideas and improving on our existing designs which means that sometimes products are withdrawn at short notice. We hate to disappoint and will work with you to find an alternative design. Please contact Customer Service for more information.
